“Cluck! Cluck! Cluck!
What good luck,"
Says Mother Hen,
Counting all her seven.

Fluffy little chicks,
All set for the market,
No longer upto tricks,
Or back they’d be in their basket.
Here come the mice,
Fat mice, thin mice,
Naughty mice, lazy mice,
All kinds of mice.

They sniff and they squeak,
Play hide and seek,
And pull Mama’s tail
While she’s fast asleep.
“May we have some more?”
Cry the birdies four,
While mama and papa sparrow
Fly to and fro.

“Chirpy cheep cheep,
We don’t want to sleep,
But learn how to fly,
Very very high.”
The elephant is so big,
But he can even dance a jig.
To the circus when we go,
He is the star of the show.

A joy-ride is such fun,
Even if it’s just one.
Naughty is his baby,
He’ll play with me, maybe?
I have but one wish,
To swim like a fish,
In the cool clear sea,
Where nobody can catch me.

Not just a red fish,
A black or a gold fish,
But a pretty little striped fish,
That’s what I wish.
“Caw caw,” says the crow,
“Wake up, it’s time to go.”
What colour is the crow?
He’s black we all know.

Nothing he loves more than food,
When he finds something good,
He has stolen it and flown,
Before you can throw a stone!
Hop, skip and jump,
The squirrels have fun.
Up and down the tree they run,
Chasing each other in the sun.

Three stripes small,
The squirrel has on his back.
What he loves most of all
Is a big nut to crack.
Crunch, crunch, crunch,
Carrots they munch,
And hop, hop, hop,
Don’t they ever stop?

Come rabbit, come here,
There’s nothing for you to fear.
Your eyes go blink, blink,
I wonder what you think?
Oh! pretty butterfly,
Why can’t we fly,
Up into the sky,
Just you and I?

Red, yellow and white,
Your wings are so bright,
I know you love flowers,
On them you sit for hours.
The parrot is a pet,
The best I have met.
She swings her head
When it’s time to be fed.

Dainty is her walk,
And like us she can talk.
She’ll say “Thank you dear,”
If you let her peck your ear.
Naughty little monkey,
Swinging on the tree,
Many things he can do,
Much better than you.

He can clap, he can clown,
He can hang upside down.
He can jump, he can walk,
If only he could talk!
