

The Very Worst Monster

by Pat Hutchins

Illustrated by Carlos Friere

When Billy Monster was born, his pa said, "My son is going to grow up to be the Worst Monster in the World."

"No, he's not," said Hazel, Billy's sister. "I am."

But nobody heard Hazel.

When Grandpa and Grandma Monster came to visit the baby, Grandpa said, "Look at those strong fangs! He can bend bars with his teeth!"

"So can I," said Hazel. But they were all so busy watching Billy that nobody watched Hazel.

"Listen to that noise!" said Grandma. "He can growl already!"

"I can growl louder than that," said Hazel. But they were all so busy listening to Billy that nobody listened to Hazel.

"Look," said Pa. "See how he swings on the curtains!"

"I can do that," said Hazel. But they were all so busy looking at Billy that nobody looked at Hazel.

“See how he scares the letter carrier!” said Ma.
“So do I,” said Hazel. But they were all so busy admiring Billy that nobody noticed Hazel.

Ma and Pa thought Billy was such a bad baby that they entered him in the “Worst Monster Baby in the World” competition.

Hazel hoped that the baby who tried to eat the prize would win. But then Billy tried to eat the judge.

"This is definitely the Worst Monster Baby in the World," said the judge. And Billy won.

Ma and Pa and Grandma and Grandpa were very proud of Billy. "I know that he will grow up to be the Worst Monster in the World," said Pa happily.

"No, he won't," said Hazel. But nobody heard Hazel. Hazel tried losing her little brother, but he kept turning up again.

She tried frightening him away, but that didn't work either.

So she gave him away.

"Where's Billy?" asked Ma and Pa.
"I gave him away," said Hazel.
"Oh!" cried Ma and Pa. "You gave your own baby brother away! You must be the Worst Monster in the World!"

"I told you I was," said Hazel. "I'm the Worst Monster in the World and HE's the Worst Baby Monster in the World!"

"I thought you'd given him away," said Ma.

"I did," said Hazel. "But they gave him back!"